

REVIEW OF WEEK IN LOCAL MARKET

Feeling of Confidence in Future Course of Prices.

NO CLOUDS ON THE HORIZON

Brokers Will Enjoy Their Christmas
Dinners With Unusual Satisfaction.

The week closed with the Christmas feeling rampant. And why should it not be so, said one observant broker. The year has been one of unexampled prosperity, with trading larger than has ever before occurred in the history of the stock market. The touch of Midas has been over all, and everything has turned to gold. Seats have gone up to the price of a prince's ransom, and the demand is greater now even at the very high level than has ever before existed. These would seem reasons sufficient for the enjoyment of the season by every one who has been fortunate enough to continue their faith in Washington securities and secured a share of the wonderful prosperity they have enjoyed. The advance which started in the fall of 1904 has gone steadily on, eclipsing all previous performances, and throughout the entire year has sustained the improvement in a manner not even predicted by the most enthusiastic believer. A few prophecies made in the early days of the movement were looked upon with much incredulity, but in nearly every case they have proved the correctness of the predictions and made barrels of money to those who had faith in them.

Washington Railway Stocks.
A notable feature of the advance through the year has been the increase in the stocks and bonds of this company, and the changed feeling toward them by the most conservative class of investors. At the close of 1904 the movement had hardly got well under way, and business was restricted to very small trading. Loans were difficult to secure where they were used as a collateral security, and the public had but just begun to take a friendly interest in them. Now all is changed, and throughout the year the bulk of the trading is represented by the tremendous dealing in these securities, and the continued confidence felt in them.

Trust Stocks.
The rapid advances in the price of trust stocks and the tenacity with which they are held by investors, although the returns made upon them are not large, are among the surprising features of this surprising year. The building of the new home by the American Security and Trust Company, the declaration of a dividend by the Union Trust, and the rumored changes in the National Safe Deposit Company have but whetted the public appetite, and prices have soared to figures that would have been deemed incredible a year ago.

Bank Stocks.
The consolidation of the Metropolitan-Citizens, the purchase and occupancy of the fine premises known as the Sun building by the American National, the contemplated alignment of the Second National with powerful interests in New York city, and numerous other consolidations so frequently reported have caused holders of bank stocks to hang on to them with a determination born of a belief in great possibilities. The prosperity of the two new candidates, the American National and the Commercial, and the declaration of a dividend in the early days of their career is one of the unusual features of prosperity in banking. The coming of the National City Bank as a candidate for public favor, and the excellent manner in which it has been received, would appear to show that the field is still open for new enterprises that can secure the public confidence.

Savings Banks.
Here, too, are striking evidences of the increased prosperity of the community and the confidence felt in institutions of that kind. The great increase in their deposits, and the small amounts that have been offered for sale show how highly they are thought of by investors.

Capital Traction.
The railroad situation is just now in a somewhat confused condition, as the reports of an amalgamation of competing interests are not entirely credited. The friends of this company are, however, well satisfied with the continued prosperity and the stock is now selling at the highest point in its history, and with little disposition to part with it by the large holders, the trading being confined to transactions in very limited quantities.

Generally speaking, the balance of the net of stocks and bonds are of like character to that already recited. Prices are high, but there is still a feeling they will go higher, and with every indication that the coming of 1906 will bring another year of prosperity to our financial institutions and all collateral interests, the officers and stockholders of them, as well as members of the Stock Exchange, are ready to indulge in a very Merry Christmas.

PRESIDENT MAY REAPPOINT NAVAL OFFICER SHARKEY

Michael J. Dady, of Brooklyn, called upon the President yesterday and earnestly urged him to give another term to Robert A. Sharkey, naval officer of the port of Brooklyn. The understanding has been that the President would give the place to another man, but Mr. Dady seemed to think otherwise. "I am quite hopeful that the President will reappoint Mr. Sharkey," he said. "I believe that I have been able to show the President that Mr. Sharkey has been a very much abused man. One of the President's great characteristics is his ability to reverse himself when he sees he is wrong."

Mr. Dady would not say just what the President said to him, but from his confident air something must have passed to make him say what he did.

PORKER WITH SMILE GAVE HIM APPETITE

Bailiff Sam Kendig Wanted Pig's Head for Breakfast.

"A pig's smile induced me to eat the first breakfast that I have had in twenty years," said Bailiff Sam Kendig, of the Police Court, yesterday. Bailiff Kendig has served in that position for sixteen years, and those who have known him during that time say that it had been his one boast that he never ate breakfast before coming to the court.

Bailiff Kendig tells the story in this fashion: "Thursday I went down on Louisiana avenue to see the remains of the fire. As I was looking up at the blackened walls from the other side of the street I felt something rub against my leg. At first I thought it was a dog, but when I looked down I saw a black head with a snout sticking out of a pen and looking up at me with a really human smile.

"When I recovered from the shock, I was seized with a consuming desire for some hog's head, and the fellow at my feet looked good to me. If I had not been a bailiff in the Police Court for so many years, where I have learned that the aftermath of crime overbalances all the benefits that may be temporarily derived from it, I should have snatched the pig, box, and the rope with which it was tied and maybe made my escape.

"Discretion is the better part of valor, and if any one should know that I should therefore I went inside to the merchant and arranged for the purchase of a whole hog's head. Whether it was in revenge for the scare that he had given me or whether it was due to the fact that he looked particularly clean and neat about the face, I have been unable to decide, but I insisted that I have that particular pig's head. The man promised it to me the next day, and I knew that I got the same pig for I dented him in the forehead with my penknife before I left."

"The next morning my wife, who has a violent antipathy to all pork, came down stairs, and seeing me monkeying at the stove, asked me what I was doing. I replied that I was cooking my breakfast. The proceeding was so extraordinary that she raised the lid and looked in. Before I knew what had happened, the boiling water raised the head in the pot so that it protruded above the side. My wife let out a whoop and jumped on the table, brandishing the kettle lid before her as a shield and shouting that she was going to get a divorce.

"It was some time before I could get her to accept my explanations. Nevertheless, when the excitement had quieted down, I sat down to the finest breakfast that I have eaten since I have been married, with all spoils to my wife."

He told how he came to eat first breakfast in twenty years.

BAILIFF SAM KENDIG.
He Tells How He Came to Eat First Breakfast in Twenty Years.

and looked in. Before I knew what had happened, the boiling water raised the head in the pot so that it protruded above the side. My wife let out a whoop and jumped on the table, brandishing the kettle lid before her as a shield and shouting that she was going to get a divorce.

"It was some time before I could get her to accept my explanations. Nevertheless, when the excitement had quieted down, I sat down to the finest breakfast that I have eaten since I have been married, with all spoils to my wife."

He told how he came to eat first breakfast in twenty years.

and looked in. Before I knew what had happened, the boiling water raised the head in the pot so that it protruded above the side. My wife let out a whoop and jumped on the table, brandishing the kettle lid before her as a shield and shouting that she was going to get a divorce.

"It was some time before I could get her to accept my explanations. Nevertheless, when the excitement had quieted down, I sat down to the finest breakfast that I have eaten since I have been married, with all spoils to my wife."

He told how he came to eat first breakfast in twenty years.

and looked in. Before I knew what had happened, the boiling water raised the head in the pot so that it protruded above the side. My wife let out a whoop and jumped on the table, brandishing the kettle lid before her as a shield and shouting that she was going to get a divorce.

"It was some time before I could get her to accept my explanations. Nevertheless, when the excitement had quieted down, I sat down to the finest breakfast that I have eaten since I have been married, with all spoils to my wife."

He told how he came to eat first breakfast in twenty years.

and looked in. Before I knew what had happened, the boiling water raised the head in the pot so that it protruded above the side. My wife let out a whoop and jumped on the table, brandishing the kettle lid before her as a shield and shouting that she was going to get a divorce.

"It was some time before I could get her to accept my explanations. Nevertheless, when the excitement had quieted down, I sat down to the finest breakfast that I have eaten since I have been married, with all spoils to my wife."

He told how he came to eat first breakfast in twenty years.

and looked in. Before I knew what had happened, the boiling water raised the head in the pot so that it protruded above the side. My wife let out a whoop and jumped on the table, brandishing the kettle lid before her as a shield and shouting that she was going to get a divorce.

"It was some time before I could get her to accept my explanations. Nevertheless, when the excitement had quieted down, I sat down to the finest breakfast that I have eaten since I have been married, with all spoils to my wife."

He told how he came to eat first breakfast in twenty years.

and looked in. Before I knew what had happened, the boiling water raised the head in the pot so that it protruded above the side. My wife let out a whoop and jumped on the table, brandishing the kettle lid before her as a shield and shouting that she was going to get a divorce.

MUSICIANS OF MATTERS OF INTEREST TO ALL MUSIC LOVERS

Musicians Assist Choir.

Miss Florence A. Pearce will sing at the evening service today in St. Paul's English Lutheran Church and Miss Josie Gould will also be among the singers to assist the choir. The new organ will be dedicated with a special musical program under the direction of William J. Palmer. Mr. Atwater will play several selections at the evening service.

Rebuc Orchestra.

The Rebuc Orchestra gave one of the most interesting concerts in its history last Tuesday evening in Hamilton Church. H. W. Weber directed, and the assisting musicians were S. Hicks, W. W. Gibson, Miss Edith Athey, with Percy C. Bowen, reader.

While the orchestra has been giving rehearsals for several weeks, this was the first concert, and the result of their work in the early season was easily manifest. The organization played and its concerted work grows more and more interesting as each season advances.

Rebuc Orchestra.

Last Tuesday night the orchestra was especially successful in the reading of selections from "Ermine," the overture "Light Cavalry," by Suppe, and Meacham's "American Patrol." The string quintets, "Love Song," by Ehrlich, and "A Spanish Dance," by Moszkowski, were among the best liked numbers on the program. These were played by T. A. Connor, E. E. Daly, G. J. Weber, J. A. D. Turner, and W. J. Weber. Mr. Hicks' baritone solo was encored enthusiastically, and for both of his readings Mr. Bowen was compelled to supply a second recitation.

The orchestra will continue its monthly rehearsals throughout the season and will take part in various charitable entertainments, as has been the custom in the past. Its annual concert will be given in the spring.

Friday Morning Club.

Johannes Miersch, violinist, and Adolf Glöse, pianist, are the artists who will supply the program next Friday morning at 11 o'clock for the Friday Morning Music Club in the Washington Club, 1701 I street.

Mr. Miersch and Mr. Glöse have been giving interesting recitals in the joint studio on Thursday mornings, when the programs are confined to sonatas. On next Friday these interesting musicians will play three sonatas, one from the works of Wilhelm Berzax, German composer; another by Antonin Dvorak, Bohemian composer, and a third by Cesar Frank, Kranko-Belgian.

Special Program Today.

Joseph Harrison, organist and choir-master at the Ninth Street Christian Church, has arranged a special musical program which will be given today by the choir under his direction. The following program will be offered:

Anthems by the choir—
"Arise, Shine, For Thy Light is Come."
"Hark! The Herald Angels Sing."
Offertory solo—Mrs. Richard W. Burkhardt, "The Heavenly Message."
Coombs

Anthems by the choir—
"Behold! I Bring You Good Tidings."
"There Shall be Peace."
Violin solos as prelude and postlude by Joseph Harrison, with organ accompaniment by the assistant organist, Miss Virginia Raymond.

Mrs. Knight's Success.

Washington has a most welcome addition to its roster of artists in Mrs. Grace Dyer Knight, who recently gave a song and story recital of Robert Burns in the New Willard under the patronage of Mrs. Fairbanks. Mrs. Knight is a pupil of Toetti and of a cultured and has a voice of much beauty and an added talent for descriptive work. She has attained wide prominence as a lecturer on artistic subjects, and last year won the admiration of London society through her clever drawing-room entertainments.

Mrs. Knight will be heard frequently at the Washington and Baltimore concerts will be Giuseppe Campanari, the well-known operatic baritone.

The Washington program, as announced, reads as follows: Wagner, "Vorprelud," "Lohengrin," Giardano, monologue from "Andre Chénier," Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from "Marriage of Figaro," Brahms, "Academic Festival," overture. While for Baltimore, the program sheet has the following numbers: "Goldmark, overture, 'Sakuntala'; Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from 'Marriage of Figaro'; Strauss, symphonic poem, 'Tod und Verklärung.'"

Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Philadelphia Orchestra of eighty musicians, under the direction of Fritz Schell, will leave the Quaker City by special train on the morning of December 28, and give a performance in Washington in the afternoon, at the Columbia Theater at 3:45 p. m. The soloist for the Washington and Baltimore concerts will be Giuseppe Campanari, the well-known operatic baritone.

The Washington program, as announced, reads as follows: Wagner, "Vorprelud," "Lohengrin," Giardano, monologue from "Andre Chénier," Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from "Marriage of Figaro," Brahms, "Academic Festival," overture. While for Baltimore, the program sheet has the following numbers: "Goldmark, overture, 'Sakuntala'; Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from 'Marriage of Figaro'; Strauss, symphonic poem, 'Tod und Verklärung.'"

General Miles Asks

TO BE RELIEVED

Former Commander of the Army Tired

of His Office on Staff of Governor Douglas.

Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, former

commanding general of the army, is tired of his office as military adviser on the staff of Governor Douglas, of Massachusetts, and has written a letter to Secretary of War Taft asking that he be relieved of further duty. Secretary

Taft has not yet made answer to the request, but it is understood that it will be granted.

Immediately after Governor Douglas' election a year ago, the governor offered the position to the former commanding general of the army, who had been retired as lieutenant general, and there was considerable talk at that time as to whether General Miles could accept a position with the State and draw pay, which he has not done since he decided that the connection was legitimate, as a number of retired brigadier generals and major generals hold similar positions with different States. Owing to the fact that General Miles, however, had protested against his appointment, he is the highest salaried American army officer.

General Miles is expected to make his report for the year to Governor Douglas today.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

this winter at various homes, and may give another public lecture through the success of her recent Burns entertainment.

Mr. Miersch to Play.

Johannes Miersch, the distinguished violinist, who is now making Washington his home, will assist the choir of Calvary Baptist Church at the Christmas services to be held today. Mr. Miersch will play the Adagio from the "Ninth Concerto," by Spohr, and the Adagio from the "First Concerto," by Max Bruch.

Song Service at Trinity.

The choir of Trinity M. E. Church will present the cantata, "Bethlehem," at 7:30 o'clock tonight, under the direction of William K. Cohen, organist of the choir. The quartet which will interpret the work is composed of Miss Laura Black, soprano; Miss Carolyn S. Smith, contralto; Julius Hurling, tenor, and William H. Barnholt, baritone.

Marine Band Concert.

The Marine Band will give a concert in the Columbia Theater next Sunday night, New Year Eve. Mr. Santelmann has received so many written and verbal requests for various numbers since the present concert series was inaugurated that he has decided to play a "request" program at this concert, giving music that has been generally requested by patrons of the concerts. The first number will be Rossini's brilliant overture to "William Tell." Another exceedingly popular number will be selections from Verdi's "Il Trovatore." A New Year feature the band will play the popular "Monastery Bells," with chime obligato by Samuel Johnston, and other well-known numbers will be Mr. Santelmann's caprice, "Heart's Message" and the "Blue Danube Waltz." Jacques L. Vanoupe, premier clarinetist, will be the soloist.

Soloist Engaged.

A. J. Hudson has accepted the position of bass soloist in the quartet choir of the First Presbyterian Church, which vacancy occurred by the resignation of W. A. Hopkins, who is now filling a similar position at St. Margaret's Episcopal Church. The personnel of the quartet of the First Presbyterian Church, in addition to Mr. Hudson, bass, is Mrs. L. A. Roberts, soprano; Miss Mary B. Finney, contralto; S. E. Compton, director, tenor, with Mrs. George F. Shutt, organist. Special music has been arranged for today. The evening service will be "An Evening With the Choir."

Boston Symphony.

At the third Boston Symphony concert in the New National Theater on Tuesday afternoon, January 3, the soloist will be Prof. Willy Hess, concert master of the orchestra. Prof. Hess is one of the few really great violinists of the world, and his success in this country has been exceeded by none. Mr. Gerick will conduct.

Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Philadelphia Orchestra of eighty musicians, under the direction of Fritz Schell, will leave the Quaker City by special train on the morning of December 28, and give a performance in Washington in the afternoon, at the Columbia Theater at 3:45 p. m. The soloist for the Washington and Baltimore concerts will be Giuseppe Campanari, the well-known operatic baritone.

The Washington program, as announced, reads as follows: Wagner, "Vorprelud," "Lohengrin," Giardano, monologue from "Andre Chénier," Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from "Marriage of Figaro," Brahms, "Academic Festival," overture. While for Baltimore, the program sheet has the following numbers: "Goldmark, overture, 'Sakuntala'; Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from 'Marriage of Figaro'; Strauss, symphonic poem, 'Tod und Verklärung.'"

Philadelphia Orchestra.

The Philadelphia Orchestra of eighty musicians, under the direction of Fritz Schell, will leave the Quaker City by special train on the morning of December 28, and give a performance in Washington in the afternoon, at the Columbia Theater at 3:45 p. m. The soloist for the Washington and Baltimore concerts will be Giuseppe Campanari, the well-known operatic baritone.

The Washington program, as announced, reads as follows: Wagner, "Vorprelud," "Lohengrin," Giardano, monologue from "Andre Chénier," Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from "Marriage of Figaro," Brahms, "Academic Festival," overture. While for Baltimore, the program sheet has the following numbers: "Goldmark, overture, 'Sakuntala'; Tachakowsky, symphony No. 4, op. 36; Mozart, aria from 'Marriage of Figaro'; Strauss, symphonic poem, 'Tod und Verklärung.'"

General Miles Asks

TO BE RELIEVED

Former Commander of the Army Tired

of His Office on Staff of Governor Douglas.

Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, former

commanding general of the army, is tired of his office as military adviser on the staff of Governor Douglas, of Massachusetts, and has written a letter to Secretary of War Taft asking that he be relieved of further duty. Secretary

Taft has not yet made answer to the request, but it is understood that it will be granted.

Immediately after Governor Douglas' election a year ago, the governor offered the position to the former commanding general of the army, who had been retired as lieutenant general, and there was considerable talk at that time as to whether General Miles could accept a position with the State and draw pay, which he has not done since he decided that the connection was legitimate, as a number of retired brigadier generals and major generals hold similar positions with different States. Owing to the fact that General Miles, however, had protested against his appointment, he is the highest salaried American army officer.

General Miles is expected to make his report for the year to Governor Douglas today.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

WOMEN AS WHISKY DRUMMERS.

"There are numbers of them in Philadelphia," said a well-known traveling man, speaking of women drummers, and they are most successful—more successful than the men. One of the most successful drummers I know is an old lady who lives here. She is a grandmother, and through reverses of fortune was obliged to take to the road, carrying on her husband's whisky business, which she did comparatively successfully for some time. She is a college by her work. There are lots of women on the road who make a business of selling liquor, and though it does not seem to be a strictly feminine field, they succeed in their work."—Philadelphia Record.

GIL HOOLEY CASE'S NEW SENSATION

Miller Said to Be Employers' Spy.

ACTS AS UNION OFFICIAL

Fools Carriage and Wagon Workers

Completely—Poses as Co-defendant.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—A sensation was caused in the Gilhooley conspiracy case, on trial before Judge Chetlain, when it was openly charged today that George Miller, who was co-defendant until his discharge a week ago, had been a spy for the Corporations' Auxiliary Company, an employers' association, and that he had disappeared.

Attorney Seymour Stedman, of counsel for the defense, declared that Miller had completely fooled the other officials of the Carriage and Wagon Workers' Union, No. 4, and that it was evident he had been in the pay of employers' associations while acting as a union official.

Miller was found not guilty and discharged on motion of his attorneys a week ago, and has not since been seen. Miller became a member of the executive board of the Carriage and Wagon Workers' Union in January last year. He declared he was a blacksmith's helper and that he had come to Chicago from Cincinnati. Later he said he was from St. Louis, and upon an investigation the officials declare they have learned he came to Chicago from Toledo, the headquarters of the Employers' Auxiliary Company.

MAJOR MALCOMB REPORTS

HIS WAR OBSERVATIONS

Major M. M. Malcomb, of the Artillery Corps, U. S. A., arrived in this city yesterday from Manchuria, where he was assigned by this Government to watch the operations of the Russian army in its war against the Japanese forces.

Major Malcomb was the last of a number of American army and navy officers to be sent to the field of action as attaché. His report on his observations, which will shortly be made for the benefit of the army, will be treated as a confidential document and not be made public.

Upon arriving in the city yesterday, Major Malcomb at once resumed his duties in the offices of the general staff of the War Department.

MEDICAL.

DR. REED SPECIALIST

23 YEARS' Successful

Means Health to You If You Suffer

From Catarrh, Obesity, Rheumatism, Constipation, Piles, Throat, Lung, Brain, Heart, Blood, and Skin Diseases, Nervous and Debility, Kidney Diseases, Bladder Troubles, etc. etc. etc. Special Blood Purifying, Eruptions, Ulcers, and All Private Diseases cured for life by safe methods. CHARGES LOW, INCLUDING MEDICINE. CONSULTATION FREE.

Private Waiting Rooms for Ladies.